DETAILED ACTION

Examiner's Comment

The Notice of Non-Responsive Amendment mailed 4 August 2006 is hereby vacated. An Office Action on the merits is set forth below.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 2, 4-6, and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Harris et al.

As per claims 1, 2, 4-6, and 12, Harris et al. discloses an independent car temperature regulation system comprising its own motor (as part of its own blower system 14), its own rechargeable battery 25 (see column 3, lines 39-50 regarding the battery being rechargeable), its own cooling system 10 and air system 14), its own heating unit (as part of element 10 in Figure 4), its own regulating computer system (see circuitry of Figure 2 and controller interface of Figure 3), and the ability to jump start the vehicle (column 3, lines 61-66).

Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by D'Agaro.

As per claim 3, D'Agaro discloses a vehicle auxiliary air conditioning system comprising its own filter 5 (see Figure 4; column 2, line 27).

Art Unit: 3744

Claims 7 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Fischler.

As per claim Fischler discloses a self-contained vehicle air conditioning system comprising its own power transformer 23.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Harris et al. in view alternatively of Kortum or Howard.

Harris et al. does not specifically teach the air conditioner being powered by solar power. Howard and Kortum each teach independent vehicle air conditioning systems powered by solar power. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine this feature with the system of Harris et al. for the purpose of taking advantage of the well-known energy efficiencies that solar power provides.
